FIRST SESSION OF MEN'S BIBLE CLASS.

Subject of the Evening's Study Was
The Other Fellow.

The Bible class for men at the Y. M. C. A. held its first session Tuesday evening at 8.15 when lunch was served for nominal price. There was a good attendance and every man manifested a deep interest in the study, the subject of which was "The Other Fellow." The study was based on Galatians, sixth chapter, and the first ten verses.

The following points were brought out in the discussion: That many men are thoughtless of the other fellow, and the reason for this is that selfishness possesses most men to the degree that they are unable to see the most when he is up against some hard experience and that often he fails to get the help he needs; that some men are egotistic because they compare themselves with other men, whereas if they compared themselves with the only perfect man, Jesus Christ all the egotism would quickly vanish and humility would take its place.

One of the strongest points which developed during the study was that every man was in this world, or should be in the world for the sole purpose of serving his fellows and for an exalted end. The study was the most perfect one was the Master of men. General Secretary Hill was in charge of the class.

RIGOR OF BRITISH PATROL OF EUROPEAN WATERS

Steamer Cebu Hailed Within a Mile and a Half From Shore.

Manila, P. I., Oct. 24.—The rigor of the British patrol of Philippine waters was illustrated this morning at 3.30 when the interisland steamer Cebu, bound from Cebu to Manila, was halted by a British destroyer under the very guns of Corregidor, the frowning fortresses which guard the entrance to Manila bay. The Cebu was stopped a mile and a half from shore.

Captain Apolinario Cayo, the Spanish master of the vessel, noticed the destroyer as he was some miles away from the entrance to the bay. He was then outside of the three mile limit but as the destroyer made no move he thought an American warship on patrol. Passengers on the vessel state that the destroyer sent a Morse message to the Cebu but it was not noticed by the coasting vessel.

Contrary to the usual practice of the British patrol boats in these waters the destroyer fired no shot to halt the vessel, perhaps because of the proximity of the fortress, but came forward at express train speed. She evaded the Cebu inside the three mile limit and ordered her to stop. A boarding party came on board the Cebu and despite the captain's protest, made a cursory examination of the ship and her papers. The officer in charge of the party explained that he was looking for a certain German man. Failing to find him the party returned to the destroyer and the Cebu continued her voyage to Manila.

There were two Germans aboard the Cebu, one making his way from the Dutch East Indies to Manila and the other, an officer of the German steamer Princess Alice, now interned at Cebu, bound for Baguio, the mountain resort for a vacation. Both escaped the scrutiny of the British.

Captain Cayo made a full report of the incident to the custom authorities and they in turn reported to Governor General Harrison who transmitted the details of the affair to Washington.

It is believed that the British authorities are on the lookout for a well known German said to be now in a southern island of the Philippines. Practically every boat coming to Manila from the south reports detention and examination by a British warship.

Danbury.—A new order went into effect in the police department Monday and as a result each patrolman will remain on his post until relieved by the patrolman who succeeds him. In the past it has been the custom for patrolmen to report at the police headquarters at the hour they go off duty and for patrolmen going on duty to report there at the same time.
